

Take Action Worksheet

Let your table take you places.

If your table is ready to move your ideas into action, spend a few minutes with your guests brainstorming what happens after your conversation: What actions can you take, as a group or as individuals, to move your table from ideas to impact?

Actions can include convening a follow-up conversation, collaborating with an organization tackling the issue you discussed, or raising funds for an organization that is addressing a gap important to you. Record your actions in the chart below.

Who is your community?

Community may be defined as a group of people who share interests, geography, identity, aspirations, professions or more; in short, tell us who's involved.

What is your challenge?

Describe the issue you are seeking to take on, bring to light, support, solve or otherwise address.

How will you take on the challenge?

Share what your group will do and whether the approach involves a particular hobby or skill that exists within your community; consider whether you will collaborate with an existing organization.

Who will lead the action?

Collect names and contact information, such as phone numbers and email addresses.

Who can help?

Collect names and contact information, such as phone numbers and email addresses.
